

SERVOCA MANAGED SERVICES

“We need to understand ... the potential benefits of outsourcing, and not just in areas like human resources and finance. Some forces have already shown substantial savings in things like custody management.”

Theresa May, Home Secretary to the Association of Chief Police Officers and Association of Police Authorities National Conference, June 2010.

Servoca Managed Services deliver bespoke managed and outsourced services covering a wide range of policing needs, from homicide reviews through to tape transcription and intelligence data handling services. We have extensive experience in working within the police and criminal justice sector, and have the capability to assist with an array of managed outsourcing needs.

With the wide ranging changes across the police and public sector, and the focus on efficiencies needing to be introduced, Servoca are listening to organisations to understand where they see these efficiencies being found, and how we can make available services that can help address them while they maintain the level of performance and delivery that is expected from them, whether they are fully outsourced services or purely resource based solutions.

Services currently available through Servoca Managed Services include, but are not restricted to:
